A workshop on learning to observe was conducted in the College campus on 01.12.2022. The purpose of the workshop was to make the student teachers aware about the importance of observation in the teaching learning process as a method for collecting data about people, processes and cultures. Observation provides first-hand experience which allows teachers to be open to discovery rather than making their own interpretations. With the help of observation teachers can reveal patterns of behaviour, learning preferences, mastery of skills, and developmental progress of the students. The workshop included the types of observation with their advantages and disadvantages. Also, the ethics while doing observation were elaborated with the help of classroom instances.
